Mesick testified that he did not know whether certain wood, which he pronounced of poor quality, had been purchased before 1898, when Ryan took charge, or later.

Point for Ryan. Mr. McCurdy brought out the fact ALGER FOR THE SENATE. Mr. McCurdy brought out the fact that it was a usual thing in the repair department to burn up fragments of broken timber removed from the apparatus. Mesick admitted that this burning took place every year. That cleared away the insinuation made yesterday that some of the evidence against Chief Ryan had been burned up.

Stephen Bridge, of No. 31 West Ninetvaninth street, a wheelwright employed in the repair department, said that the oak and ash used in the repair shop was of a very poor quality. In 1897 they had received 1,500 felloes in one lot; that he had asspected them and had thrown out many of them. Chief Ryan came to him and to d him to look them over again. On the second inspection he had thrown out twenty-seven, but Ryan kept them.
